Join communications experts to examine how the public narrative influences politics, policy, business and nature investment, and how we can practically harness our collective communications power to catalyse action for nature. Speakers: Claire O’Rourke, CEO, Australian Environmental Grantmakers Network James Trezise, Biodiversity Council Patrick O’Leary, Country Needs People Fiona Nixon (Think HQ, Melb) Workshop 2: Future Leaders Forum Get Ready to Lead the Change! Are you ready to dive in and make a real impact on our environment? Join us at the Future Leaders Forum, where we’re bringing together passionate young adults like you to brainstorm, innovate, and create solutions for today’s environmental challenges. Why Attend? This isn’t your typical workshop. We’re talking hands-on problem-solving, interactive sessions, and a whole lot of fun. Here’s what’s in store: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Interactive Problem-Solving: Work with other young leaders to tackle real-world environmental issues. We’ll break into small groups, brainstorm ideas, and come up with actionable plans. • Leadership in Action: Learn from the trailblazers who’ve come before you, but also discover how to put your unique spin on leadership. This is your chance to step up and shine. • Real Opportunities: This session is all about turning anxiety into action. By highlighting the incredible opportunities for growth and solutions, we’ll show you how to turn environmental challenges into career-making moments. • Meet the Movers and Shakers: Rub shoulders with philanthropists and funders who are eager to support the next big idea. This could be your shot at getting your groundbreaking project off the ground. What’s in It for You? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Inspiration and Innovation: Get inspired by the latest in conservation tech, policy changes, and collaborative efforts. Learn how you can be at the forefront of environmental change. • Connections and Collaborations: Network with like-minded peers, seasoned professionals, and potential mentors. Build connections that will last a lifetime and propel your career forward. • Take-Home Action Plans: Leave with concrete action plans and the confidence to implement them. We’re not just talking ideas; we’re talking real, impactful change. |

Don't miss out on this chance to be part of a movement that's shaping the future of land conservation. Whether you're just starting out or looking to take your career to the next level, this workshop is designed to empower you with the tools, knowledge, and network to make a difference. Facilitated by Landcare Australia

Speakers:

Annette Cavanagh, Chair, Intrepid Landcare

Kurt Jones, Founder & CEO, Co-Exist Australia

Location: Edwin Flack Room

Workshop 3: Technology & Research Solutions Showcase

Technology and research innovation is critical to driving improvements and efficiencies in managing Australia's biodiversity. At this workshop you will hear from national organisations that are leading the way in delivering exciting new practices and applications for real, on-the-ground land management efficiencies and improvement in monitoring frameworks. Use this network of technical experts and practitioners to explore improvements to your own land management practices, learn about cutting edge approaches to conservation challenges, and share your thoughts on their wider application to help address our biodiversity crisis.

Speakers:

Yezmin Assad, Networking and Telecommunications Specialist (ICT), Australian Wildlife Conservancy

Gareth Catt, Desert Partnerships Manager, Indigenous Desert Alliance

Paul Flemons, Australian Museum

Jenny Giles, CSIRO

Andrew Growcock, Manager Agreements & Technical Services, NSW Biodiversity Conservation

Megan Head, ANU

Workshop 4: Nature Positive Water – Partnering with utilities for impact

Interested in understanding how the water sector can contribute toward our Nature Positive goals in Australia? Keen to hear First Nations perspectives on partnering with water utilities to heal Country? In this workshop, we will explore how water utilities are contributing to a Nature Positive future, along with emerging opportunities to partner with private landholders and community groups to scale action.

We will hear about current initiatives and case studies from the Australian water sector, drawing from the recently released WSAA paper – Nature Positive Water, August 2024. We will explore how understanding impacts and dependencies on nature, can support the water sector to provide resilient water and wastewater services for future generations, moving from water managers to water stewards, contributing toward Australia's Nature Positive goals.

The workshop will cover three key themes:

- Partnering with water utilities – First Nations perspectives and opportunities
- Where we are now – water utility case studies with panel and group discussion
- Where we can go – exploring partnerships to scale action inspired by global case studies shared by The Nature Conservancy (TNC),

|-----------|--|
| | We will open with a sector wide overview provided by Water Services Association of Australia, followed by sharing story from First Nations perspectives on the journey so far and future opportunities. This will be followed by panel discussion sharing learnings from current water utility case studies and group discussion. We will round up to focus on future opportunities to scale action. The workshop segments will be inspired by First Nations perspectives, Australian water utility case studies and global case studies from TNC, sharing how Water Funds have enabled pooling of resources between stakeholders to scale action. We welcome First Nations people, water utility professionals, private landholders, government and academic representatives and conservation or community groups to explore how to get rubber on the road for scaling action, delivering benefits to community and nature now and for future generations. Speakers: Chris Brace, Executive General Manager, Service Futures, Melbourne Water Nina Braid, Aboriginal Partnerships Manager, Yarra Valley Water Tim Chaseling, Team Leader Catchment Protection and Land Management, Icon Water Meg Humphrys, Liveable Communities Advisor, Water Services Association of Australia (WSAA) Jason Mingo, Manager Liveable Communities, Water Services Association of Australia (WSAA) Greg Robinson, Head of First Nation Values, Barwon Water Erik Spiro-Larrea, Senior Project Lead, The Nature Conservancy Nicole Saxon, Head of Sustainability and Healthy Country, Barwon Water Location: Canberra Room |
| 1pm – 2pm | Lunch |
| 2pm – 5pm | Afternoon Workshops Workshop 5: Natural Capital and the Landscape Scale This workshop will explore the key concepts and ideas associated with the natural capital assets, accounting and investments that can support nature restoration at a landscape scale. It will look at the basics of building resilience through integrated landscape scale management; explore some of the ways we can assess and account for natural capital at a landscape scale; and unpack why it makes good sense (and cents!) to invest in landscape scale investments. This session will include a range of speakers, as well as a fun and engaging game designed to put people in the picture of place-based land management and why it makes sense. Facilitated by NRM Regions Australia. Speakers: Kate Andrews, CEO, NRM Regions Australia Adam Bester, CEO, Glenelg-Hopkins CMA Paul Chatterton, Lead and Founder, Landscape Finance Lab Karen Fitzherbert, Team Lead Strategy and Partnerships, Natural Capital, Local Land Services Helen Oakman Manager, Market Development, Primary Industries Productivity and Abatement Program (PIPAP) Workshop 6: Community-led Conservation for Big Environmental Outcomes Ready to drive transformational change in environmental conservation? Keen to gain insights from respected voices and indigenous perspectives? Excited to network and collaborate for greater impact? Join experts as they share case studies and their lived experiences. This dynamic workshop includes breakout sessions and opportunities for group sharing, allowing you to explore innovative solutions and strategies in community-led conservation. |

|-----------------|--|
| | Community-led conservation addresses complex, place-based environmental challenges by leveraging local context and unique regional knowledge. It is critical for delivering social licence and community benefit sharing. This workshop showcases how local initiatives align with broader environmental goals and why we need both bottom-up and top-down strategies. Delegates will share their approaches, challenges, and opportunities specific to community-led conservation, and explore what is needed to accelerate efforts. In this session, you will learn about: Pathways that enable long term thinking; how young people can gain agency and actively participate in private land conservation; succession planning for private landholders, community groups and organisations. Who Should Attend? Young people, community groups, ESG organisations, Landholders, Environmental Consults and Businesses, and Local Government. Speakers: Amos Atkinson, Consultant, Wannyarra Woka Robyn Edwards, Partnerships and Grants Manager, Wildlife Unlimited and Biodiversity Legacy Loulou Gebbie, Network and Relationships Manager, Biodiversity Legacy Jodi Kennedy, General Manager, Community & Culture, Bass Coast Shire Council Sam Marwood, CEO, Odonata Foundation Facilitator: Lizzie Corke, CEO, Conservation Ecology Centre Workshop 7: Reimagining Conservation 2pm – 4:30pm This workshop will bring together First Nations and non-Indigenous practitioners to talk about how we can reimagine land and sea management across Australia, together. The workshop will outline the Reimagining Conservation Forum’s 6 key themes and share examples of how these are practically applied across Australia. Presenters will share key takeaways from the August 2024 Reimagining Conservation Forum. Delegates can consider how these insights can be applied within their own organisational contexts. Speakers: Barry Hunter, CEO, North Australian Indigenous Land and Sea Management Alliance (NAILSMA) Erica McCreedy, Chief Operations Officer, North Australian Indigenous Land and Sea Management Alliance (NAILSMA) |
| 5:15pm – 6:30pm | First Nations Delegate Event After a day of workshops, First Nations delegates are invited to a pre-dinner gathering to connect and network. Facilitators: Bruce Hammond, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Partnerships Manager, South Australia, Bush Heritage Australia Maria Watson-Trudgett, Cultural Consultant/First Nations Strategic Advisor & Aboriginal Artist |

| 11:15am – 12:15pm | Concurrent Series 1 |
| Concurrent 1A: Harnessing Markets for Conservation Impact Environmental markets, with the right guardrails, are leveraging private sector investment to tackle the climate and biodiversity crises. This session will lift the lid on their progress, nationally and globally, look at the lessons learned from the carbon market, and analyse real-life case studies where markets are driving great outcomes for the environment and the people that manage it. Speakers: | |

Gareth Catt, Desert Partnerships Manager, Indigenous Desert Alliance
Cath Gallery, Manager Private Land Conservation, NSW Biodiversity Conservation Trust
Mike Rosser, Owner, Argyle Station Pastoral Co
James Schulz, CEO, GreenCollar

Facilitator: Radha Kuppalli, Non-Executive Director, Greening Australia

Concurrent 1B: Investing in First Nations Leadership

First Nations leadership brings perspectives, knowledge and practice that is crucial for safeguarding a healthy and resilient future. In this session we will explore the national and international policy, innovation and practice of First Nations-led land and water management that is delivering outcomes that are good for people and planet.

Speakers:

Stephina Salee, Executive Officer, Dhimurru Aboriginal Corporation
Teagan Shields, Research Fellow, Curtin University

Facilitators:

Bruce Hammond, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Partnerships Manager, South Australia, Bush Heritage Australia
Sam Murray, CEO, Indigenous Desert Alliance

Concurrent 1C: Achieving Targets

There is an emerging suite of pathways, roadmaps and blueprints to help Australia meet its ambitious targets 2 and 3 under the Global Biodiversity Framework, and it's no surprise that Indigenous leadership and conservation on privately managed land have a critical role to play. If you're wondering what's what, and how we're going to get there, this session is for you. Join us to unpack and outline the pathways, roadmaps, actions and resources needed for the effective protection and restoration that we so urgently need.

Speakers:

Emma Carmody, Co-Founder & Director of Legal and Partnerships, Restore Blue
James Fitzsimons, Senior Advisor, Global Protection Strategies, The Nature Conservancy
Tein McDonald, Convenor, Restoration Decade Alliance
Patrick O'Leary, Chief Executive Officer, Country Needs People

Facilitator: Rachel Lowry, CEO, Bush Heritage Australia

12:25pm –
1:25pm

Concurrent Series 2

Concurrent 2A: Nature Now: Good for People, Productivity and Profit

Nature sustains our lifestyles and livelihoods and is a linchpin of our economy. It's increasingly clear that prioritising nature is not only responsible but smart business – and it's time for the rubber to hit the road. Be inspired by business leaders putting nature at the heart of their work about the challenges, opportunities and pathways for private sector engagement and collaboration, why putting nature on the agenda is good for people, productivity and profit.

Speakers:

Allan Cooney, CEO, The North Australian Pastoral Company
Christina Dickinson, Director of Sustainability and ESG, Bupa
Ian Hamm, Chair, Indigenous Land and Sea Corporation
Olivia Whitaker, Sustainability Manager, L'ORÉAL

Facilitator: Judy Slatyer, President and Board Chair, WWF Australia

Concurrent 2B: Unlocking Landholder Participation

Across the country, thousands of landholders undertake conservation on privately managed land, making crucial contributions to building healthy and resilient landscapes and communities. This session will delve into landholders' success stories and challenges: be inspired by their motivations to protect, manage and restore nature, and hear landholder perspectives on what is actually needed to empower more people and expand participation.

Speakers:

Mark Brettschneider, Land Manager, Gayini, Nari Nari Tribal Council
Angela Hawdon, Strategic Engagements Manager, Farming For The Future
Leith Hawkins, Regional Manager, NSW Biodiversity Conservation Trust
Stuart Inchley, Founder, Tarwin River Forest

Facilitator: Corinne Proske, CEO, Trust for Nature

Concurrent 2C: Climate Solutions Through Nature Action

Nature-based solutions could contribute around 30% of the emissions cuts needed to achieve the Paris Agreement's temperature goals, making nature a crucial part of the climate solution – so how do we elevate it as a critical investment pathway? This session will look at the success of nature-based solutions being delivered locally and globally, and the role of policy and investment in making sure they fulfil their potential.

Speakers:

Nick Butcher, Senior Adviser, Wollemi Capital; Chair, Australian Wildlife Conservancy
Heather Campbell, CEO, Greening Australia
Thami Croeser, Research Fellow, RMIT University
Leah Talbot, Research Manager, Australian Indigenous Land and Sea Management Alliance (NAILSMA)

Facilitator: Peter Cochrane, Councillor and Vice President, International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN)
